

Nirnya M. Kumar | Author & Myth-Weaver of Forgotten Science

Nirnya M. Kumar, is a culturally-oriented, fun-loving, and honest storyteller whose mission is to blur the lines between myth and fact. Rooted in the vibrant traditions of Nagercoil, Tamil Nadu, her stories are steeped in the ancient wisdom passed down by her late mother, whose teachings on the science behind rituals now pulse through the heart of Mirror-verse Chronicles.

By day, Nirnya serves as a Deputy Manager at the State Bank of India. By night, she breathes life into realms inspired by Hindu mythology—where 14 worlds reflect cosmic balance, 8 Bhairavas unite with Sapta Kannikas, and the power of conviction guides her characters through the Ashta Siddhis. Her writing began with poems and bedtime stories, but it was the loss of her mother and the spiritual breakthroughs that followed which transformed her storytelling into a mission.

Deeply spiritual and grounded, Nirnya practices various rituals while dreaming of donating a portion of her book's profits to support underprivileged children's education. When not writing, she finds joy in puzzles, cooking, singing, and making people laugh.

With literary influences like J.K. Rowling and Agatha Christie and spiritual guidance from her mother, Lord Muruga, Shirdi Sai Baba, and Jaggi Vasudev, Nirnya crafts tales that inspire young minds to rediscover their roots—and awaken the divine within.
